Health Reimbursement Arrangement

A health reimbursement arrangement (HRA) is a tax-free savings account for health care. This valuable employee benefit is funded with contributions from your employer. It's easy to use, and it's a smart way to save up for future out-of-pocket medical, dental, and vision bills, including retiree insurance premiums.

If your HRA is under the Standard HRA Plan, you can use it now or later, even during retirement. If your HRA is under the Post-separation HRA Plan, you can use it for "excepted benefits" until you separate from service or retire and become fully claims eligible. Excepted benefits generally include dental, vision, and long-term care.

Your HRA covers you, your spouse, and dependents, including your young-adult children through the end of the calendar year in which they turn age 26.

How It Helps

You might be struggling to cope with the cost of doctor visits, prescriptions, new glasses or contacts, and braces for the kids. Maybe you're working longer than you had expected because you can't afford medical insurance—up to $1,000 or more per month for a retiree and spouse before age 65!

Fortunately, the HRA VEBA Plan¹ can help. Many participants use their HRAs to reimburse retiree insurance premiums and the cost of medical items and services they wouldn't be able to afford otherwise. This includes things like power chairs, hearing aids, expensive vision and dental care, and emergency medical bills.

¹ The HRA VEBA Plan is offered by HRA VEBA Trust, a voluntary employees' beneficiary association (VEBA). This non-profit Trust is managed by a Board of Trustees elected by Plan participants, participating employers, or the Board itself, depending on the Trustee position.

How It Works

1. Your employer sends tax-free money to your HRA. Often, these funds would have otherwise been paid to you as taxable income. This means you're exchanging taxable income for tax-free money in your HRA—a much better deal! Your employer might also contribute funds in place of some other tax-free employee benefit.
2. You choose how you want to invest your HRA funds using the available fund lineup.
3. Depending on your HRA plan design², you can use your money right away or save it up for later, such as during retirement. Either way, you won't pay any taxes.

HRA eligibility and funding are usually subject to collective bargaining or employer policy. Check with your employer if you need to know more about your group's participation.

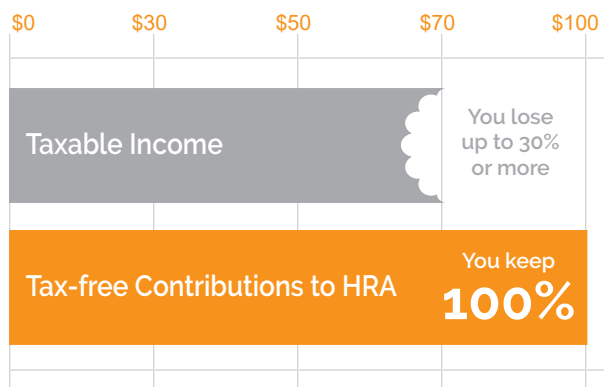

Best Tax Advantage

With an HRA, you get the best possible tax advantage—even better than tax-deferred 457, 403(b), and 401(k) plans with taxable withdrawals.

- No taxes on employer contributions;
- No taxes on investment earnings (if any); and
- No taxes on claim reimbursements (withdrawals).

This is sometimes called "triple" tax savings. You might save up to 30% or more, depending on your individual tax situation. With no tax bite, you get to keep a lot more for yourself! Tax savings includes state income tax (if applicable), federal income tax, and FICA taxes (Social Security and Medicare).

² Your HRA may be subject to vesting, post-separation benefits only, or other limitations depending on your employer's plan design or any limited HRA coverage elections you may make.

Investment Options

You get to choose from a menu of available investment funds, kind of like your deferred comp or similar retirement plan. You can make changes monthly.

Option A: Choose a Pre-mix lets you pick a professionally-managed pre-mixed portfolio. This is a great choice if you're not comfortable building your own portfolio. Many investment advisors recommend pre-mixes.

Option B: Do It Yourself lets you build your own portfolio. This is for those who know how to pick their own funds.

You can get more information online, including our Choosing Your Investment Allocation brochure, quarterly Investment Fund Overview, and links to fund fact sheets and prospectuses. You should read the fund prospectuses before making an investment decision.

HRA Advantages

HRAs have several advantages compared to health savings accounts (HSAs) and flexible spending accounts (FSAs).

1. Your HRA does not require coverage under a high-deductible health plan (HDHP). You can enroll in the medical plan of your choice.
2. Your HRA covers retiree medical premiums before and after age 65, including Medicare Part B, Part D, and supplement premiums.
3. There are no annual use-or-lose or carryover limits to worry about. All unused HRA funds roll over from year to year.
4. There are no IRS contribution limits. Contributions are usually determined by collective bargaining or employer policy.

Fees

Your HRA is a group health plan. Plan administrative expenses include claims processing, customer service, account administration, printing, postage, legal, consulting, local servicing, auditing, etc. To cover these costs, a monthly per participant fee of $1.50 (if claims-eligible) or $0.75 (if not claims-eligible), plus an annualized asset-based fee that averages around 1.00%, is charged to your account. The monthly fee is waived if your account balance is more than $5,000. In addition, a 0.25% asset-based fee discount applies to any portion of your account balance in excess of $10,000. Your account value changes daily based on activity, which includes investment earnings or losses, contribution and claims activity, and assessment of the asset-based fee.

To the extent permitted or required by law, certain fees, assessments, or other amounts payable to the federal government may also be deducted from your account. Fund operating expenses vary by fund. You can view these fees on our quarterly Investment Fund Overview available online.
